HISTORY

Every year since 1959, the Heard Museum Guild—the volunteer arm of the Heard Museum—has planned, organized, and executed the Indian Fair & Art Market on the museum campus. Its original and sustaining purpose is to support the cultural and economic sustainability of Native artists and Tribes by providing a family-friendly event where people can learn about, interact with, and buy one-of-a-kind art directly from Native artists while also generating proceeds to support the Heard Museum’s mission and programs. In 2024, the Heard welcomed nearly 650 Native artists and over 19,000 visitors to this iconic Arizona event.

ONE ARTIST’S VIEW

“I am honored to be a part of this network of Indigenous artists, and thankful to the Heard for supporting Native American art, providing a showcase of our best work. We all walk this path hand and hand together, and each of us artists are enriched and grateful for our relationship with the Heard Museum... I thank the leadership and support of the Guild that has helped guide the Heard Museum into becoming one of the top museums of American Art in the United States today.”

ABOUT THE FAIR

ARIZONA’S LARGEST ART FAIR
Arizona’s largest art fair returns to the Heard Museum in March 2025. This premier event is also one of the largest American Indian art markets in the world, drawing over 19,000 visitors and more than 600 preeminent American Indian artists. The Fair provides the opportunity to meet and purchase directly from multiple generations of artists working in all forms of the visual arts. All proceeds from ticket sales support the Heard Museum’s mission:

The Heard Museum connects Indigenous creativity to the world by presenting the voice and vision of American Indian artists.

YOUTH ART SHOW & SALE
2025 marks the 4th annual Youth Art Show & Sale, which provides young Indigenous artists the platform to showcase and sell their work to a broader audience than ever before. In 2024, sales among the 247 student participants exceeded $26,000, and over $11,000 in ribbon prizes were awarded.
